Abstraction in Amagansett

Hesse Flatow, a TriBeCa gallery, has had a summer outpost on Schellinger Road in Amagansett for 10 years. Its 2026 season will open on Saturday from 2 to 6 p.m. with "Splash," a large exhibition organized in collaboration with Los Angeles's Night Gallery.

The show, which will continue through Aug. 8, asks what it means to be an abstract artist now, who inherits that legacy, who extends it, and on whose terms, with 22 artists who work in a range of approaches to abstraction. They come from New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Atlanta.

The gallery is open Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 6 and by appointment through info@hesseflatow.com.
